

COMPANY TRAINING MEETINGS (FM 7-0, Appendix E)

E-4. Company, troop, and battery training meetings are the center of gravity of unit training management. Regular Army ... conduct training meetings weekly. ... They occur at the same time every week or month and are routine to the company training schedule. ... Successful training meetings focus on —

- ☐ Training proficiency overview.
- ☐ Training just conducted (previous week). Subordinate feedback from training just conducted is critical to the commander to better assess the unit's training proficiencies. The commander uses feedback to refine training plans and training guidance.
- ☐ The company's leader development planning for training events focusing on leader development goals and objectives.
- ☐ Mid-range planning and preparations (T-16 to T-7).
- ☐ Short-range planning and preparations (T-6 to T) and commander's short-range training guidance.

NOTE: Collective Training Event Meeting

There are times throughout the year when the company will hold separate training meetings for specific collective training events (e.g. Squad Collective Exercise). These indepth training event meetings are scheduled within the planning timeline for the specific event and are wholly separate from the routine weekly training meetings.

Sample Format.

The training meeting is preferably conducted towards the end of the week depending on competing battle rhythm events. Like physical fitness training, all battle rhythm events must be adhered to in order to keep structure amidst the constant irregularity of daily operations.

The executive officer serves as the coordinator for these meetings. Slides are submitted by each platoon two days in advance of the scheduled meeting.

The meeting lasts approximately one hour in length maximum. The executive officer serves as the host and beings the meeting by covering the agenda and reviewing the next eight training weeks as well as briefly covering any large training events that will require coordination external to the company.

Each platoon briefs the commander and first sergeant a review of training conducted during the previous week to include training to be conducted the following week.

Platoons assigned as the project lead on a major unit training event will brief their upcoming event following a review of each platoon's training weeks (e.g. Company Land Navigation Course).

The commander will issue any final guidance at the close of the meeting.
